Vadodara is the second largest city of the Indian state of Gujarat. Vadodara is a major business centre of Gujarat and its economy is also diversified. The name of the city is taken from the Hindi word "vadi" meaning "knee" and "odara" meaning "orchard." Vadodara is called by various names, including "City of Arts, Science and Commerce", "Vadra" and the "City of Lakes". Vadodara is a part of the Mumbai Metropolitan Region, along with the cities of Panvel, Thane, and Mulshi, and the rural taluka of Kandla.

History The city was founded in the 16th century by Ahmadnagar Sultanate, and was a part of the Ahom kingdom of Assam until the Battle of Vadnagar of 1826. It was occupied by the Marathas from 1739 to 1751. In 1813, it was captured by the British and was subsequently included in the Bombay Presidency. In 1920, it was made a part of the newly formed state of Gujarat. As the economic and business centre of Gujarat, it has seen a variety of industries coming up over the years, but remains one of the most developed cities in Gujarat. The city was declared as a metropolitan city in May 1999.

History of Trade The city had trade activities on the Indian Ocean and on the Western Ghats from 12th to 16th century. In 1534, the Danish East India Company established trade relations with

What's New in the YourTime?

Use this time tracker to note what you do and when you do it. The time tracker helps you stay organized and manage your time effectively. Select how often you want to track your time and which apps you use most frequently. You can monitor the time used for a task, as well as time spent on apps. The time tracker helps you keep on top of your time. If you want to go to the gym every day you might want to invest a little more time in Tracker Time. This simple app is actually a bit more than an iPhone clock, as it keeps track of your day in four-hour blocks, so you can have a closer look at your work-life balance. In fact, Tracker Time is the ideal app for those who want to avoid the distractions and keep on track of their time and daily tasks. Simple to use is the key word here. Tracker Time is a simple iPhone app that offers just what you need: an iPhone clock, which you can customize according to your own desires. The clock is part of the app, so you can just focus on your work without missing out on a thing, while it allows you to customize the time. There are two ways to change time on the app, either manually or automatically. You can change it manually by tapping the clock or you can allow the app to set it by itself when you don't use it for a day. Three alarms are offered by the app, one for an alarm and one for an alarm clock and a third one for an emergency call. Not only does Tracker Time offer an iPhone clock but it also offers a planner, a calendar, and an alarm clock that you can change. The interface is simple and easy to navigate.

Your next online tool will be even more useful when you know that this is the main purpose of your Facebook account. If you are someone who does not want to use Facebook, this tool should not do anything else than use Facebook for you, as it will be the only tool on your mobile that will use it. You can quickly and easily find the right Facebook profile of any user, without the need to check on them. Next, the app allows you to find people you want to follow on your timeline. Facebook is also one of the reasons that makes tracking your contacts easier, as you can find users and their profiles easily. If you want to know more about this app, read our Top 7 Facebook apps list, which includes the Facebook Finder. It's time to start looking for a job.
