COMMENTS on the Hack: Comment (1) From Silver 7 months ago The offline mode is perfect, besides that I did not think the addition of a new login system was the best, it was far too similar to achievements and the release of a new game. I do not mean to hold anything against companies for making new games but this one was very a similar feel. To me it felt like a speedup of the previous game. Just my opinion. I was so happy when I got to create a character, I did not expect any more than that though. At least the weapon creation was easy, it would be nice to be able to create weapons and armor though, that would be like a whole new feature. I am sure it will come in time and they will improve on it. I would love to have seen a different character creation but that's not something I would hold against the company. After all, it's not my character I was playing.Q: setting the button position in the user control from the window I have created a user control where I added a button. Here is my xaml code
