At the end of the Jan. 6 World Day of Peace, which typically talks about how to promote peace around the world, the pontiff also called for a "global campaign" against corruption in politics and the economy. RELATED: Pope Condemns Army Officers Behind Argentina's Dirty War In his homily, the pontiff said that people are not terrorists "because they are angry or offended at certain actions or words, as they should be and are protected by the law." He went on to recall an important speech in which the former U.S. d0c515b9f4
